Andrea Rose Robinsong

Biographical Sketch, Southwest RAC Member

Andrea Robinsong is the underwriting director for KVNf Public Radio in Paonia and recently began her second term in serving on the Southwest RAC. Robinsong represents Category 2, environmental constituency and feels strongly about conservation, Wilderness, roads and travel, energy exploration and protection for native species and habitat, just to name a few.

Robinsong enjoys her public lands in many ways—birding, botanizing, hiking, 4-wheeling, canoeing/rafting and riding horseback keep her busy in her spare time. Robinsong considers her Santa Fe-style adobe home, made from the earth it sits on, her refuge surrounded by nature in all its glory.

Robinsong has lived on the Western Slope for 26 years, with some of her jobs including seasonal timber marker on the Uncompahgre National Forest and leading people on horseback high into the San Juans above Telluride. Robinsong is an adopted member of the Navajo Nation's Utah Red Bottom Clan and shares her passion for nature with others through teaching and leading.
